

Hearing the pitch — your quick read

Listen against these. Don't decide in the room.

5 THINGS TO LISTEN FOR

- 1 Skill, or just an idea? Do they already know how to do this, with proven demand — or is it a hope?
- 2 Fast & cheap to start? Concrete + quick to first sale beats big + someday.
- 3 How does it actually make money — and how fast does cash come back?
- 4 What do they bring vs. need from you? Just money, or money + work + your network?
- 5 Your downside if it goes to zero. Only risk what you can lose without pain.

3 QUESTIONS TO ASK

- ? "Who's already paying for this — or who would tomorrow?" The demand test. The whole game.
- ? "What's the smallest version we could test for the least money?" De-risks everything.
- ? "What exactly do you need from me — and what's your own skin in it?"

THE ONE RULE

Don't decide in the room. "Love it — let me think and come back to you" is a complete, strong answer. Never commit money on the spot, no matter how good it sounds. Sleep on any yes.

Which is it? A Puhunan micro-deal · a partner / co-founder · or something bigger. You don't have to know going in — just hear it against the 5 points.
